8. Josh Stoll-

- a. the next day is our individual state speech day at Lisbon. Autumn Rathjens has made it to state speech, and I'm super proud of the work and progress Makala Erdman showed in her individual speech as well. Autumn has chosen some difficult poems to read for her performance and she's knocking it out of the park.
9. Abby Stoll
- a. Our art projects have been a bit longer-term, which has been good because students are really refining what they are making! The third graders are making a "name swirl", which I believe they were in the last SAMS email update I sent. They are having a lot of fun and recently went on a "virtually gallery walk" where we put our works (in progress) on a slideshow. It was a good way for us to share our work and think about what makes our work successful.
 - b. The 5th and 6th graders are working on sewing felt for a project of their choice. Most students are making a plush toy or figure. Some students are making a small pillow or a wall hanging. We are learning a lot about different stitches, and all students are engaged because they get to make what they like (as long as it's sewing)! :)
10. Andrew-Concert on March 23rd @ 6pm
Jazz, Drumline, HS, MS bands to perform
11. Ryan-Elementary working on concert prep, not sure on look of concert
MS-also starting concert prep
